

Once In A Lifetime – Music and lyrics by – Alan Wright

The planning of angels is work of the skies
And mischief is wrought along with the lies
But this time my angel has uniquely blessed
And singled me out apart from the rest

Who would have thought that we should have met
My angel would give you her own coronet
With all that could happen to me out of the blue
That once in a lifetime, I met someone like you.

Once in a lifetime, my angel has planned
Once in a lifetime, she held out her hand
Power from the skies with her heavenly view
That once in a lifetime, I meet someone like you.

The future is told by the prophets of old
My angel will watch this story unfold
With all that could happen to me out of the blue
That once in a lifetime, I meet someone like you.

Once in a lifetime, my angel has planned
Once in a lifetime, she held out her hand
Power from the skies with her heavenly view
That once in a lifetime, I meet someone like you.
